Outcome document on the Programme of Action to Prevent, Combat and Eradicate the Illicit Trade in Small Arms and Light Weapons in All Its Aspects

I. 2012 Declaration

A renewed commitment to prevent, combat and eradicate the illicit trade in small arms and light weapons in all its aspects

1. We, the States participating in the Second United Nations Conference to Review Progress Made in the Implementation of the Programme of Action to Prevent, Combat and Eradicate the Illicit Trade in Small Arms and Light Weapons in All Its Aspects, convened at United Nations Headquarters in New York from 27 August to 7 September 2012 to review progress made in implementation and identify areas for further implementation, reaffirm our support and commitment to implement all the provisions of the Programme of Action and the International Tracing Instrument, with a view to ending the human suffering caused by the illicit trade in small arms and light weapons.

2. We reaffirm our respect for and commitment to our obligations under international law and the purposes and principles enshrined in the Charter of the United Nations, as well as those set out in the Programme of Action, including its eighth to eleventh preambular paragraphs.

3. We affirm the continued relevance and vital importance of the Programme of Action as the global framework to prevent, combat and eradicate the illicit trade in small arms and light weapons in all its aspects, as reiterated annually in the General Assembly resolution entitled “The illicit trade in small arms and light weapons in all its aspects”, and remain convinced that its full and effective implementation is essential for furthering peace, reconciliation and security, protecting lives and promoting sustainable development.

4. We emphasize that the illicit trade in small arms and light weapons in all its aspects continues to sustain conflicts, exacerbate armed violence, undermine respect for international humanitarian law and international human rights law, aid terrorism and illegal armed groups and facilitate increasing levels of transnational organized crime, as well as trafficking in humans, drugs and certain natural resources.

5. We acknowledge that by threatening security, safety and stability, the illicit trade in small arms and light weapons continues to have devastating humanitarian and socioeconomic consequences, including by impeding the provision of humanitarian assistance to victims of armed conflict, contributing to the displacement of civilians and undermining sustainable development and poverty eradication efforts.

6. We continue to recognize the primary responsibility of Governments for preventing, combating and eradicating the illicit trade in small arms and light weapons in all its aspects and for identifying and solving the problems associated with such trade, and to recognize the importance of regional and international cooperation in supporting and reinforcing national implementation.

7. We welcome the progress that has been made in implementing the Programme of Action and the International Tracing Instrument since their adoption, including on the establishment, strengthening and enforcement of national laws, regulations and administrative procedures to prevent the illicit trade and illegal manufacture of small arms and light weapons, the development of national action plans, the establishment of national points of contact, the submission of voluntary national reports and the strengthening of regional cooperation, as well as progress made in implementing stockpile security, the collection and destruction of illicit small arms and light weapons, the marking of small arms and light weapons, technical training and information sharing through such forums as the Group of States Interested in Practical Disarmament Measures.

8. We welcome the significant role of regional and subregional organizations and instruments in many parts of the world in raising awareness, building capacity and promoting cooperation and assistance to support States, upon request, to implement the Programme of Action and the International Tracing Instrument. We also encourage measures to further enhance the effective role that regional and subregional organizations can play, as appropriate, in implementing the Programme of Action and the International Tracing Instrument.

9. We stress, however, that implementation remains uneven and that challenges and obstacles still stand in the way of the full implementation of the Programme of Action and the International Tracing Instrument. We resolve to tackle these challenges, including by enhancing international cooperation and assistance.

10. We recognize the need to follow up on the previous meetings on the Programme of Action, including the Third Biennial Meeting of States (2008), the Fourth Biennial Meeting of States (2010) and the Open-ended Meeting of Governmental Experts (2011), and we note the related topics taken up by the General Assembly in the past decade, such as the negative humanitarian and development impact of the illicit manufacture, transfer and circulation of small arms and light weapons^a and the reduction and prevention of armed violence.^b

11. We support the further strengthening and development of norms and measures at the national, regional and global levels to reinforce and coordinate efforts that would prevent, combat and eradicate the illicit trade in small arms and light weapons in all its aspects.

12. We recognize the value of addressing the illicit trade in small arms and light weapons across borders, in accordance with the Programme of Action, and the need to promote cooperation on this matter through the appropriate channels, with full respect for each State's sovereignty over its own borders.

13. We highlight that limited resources and differing capacities of States still pose significant challenges and obstacles to realizing the goals of the Programme of Action. We underscore the continued necessity for international cooperation and assistance, and in particular the need for increased levels of technical and financial assistance, upon request, to build national and regional capacities to ensure the full and effective implementation of the Programme of Action and the International Tracing Instrument. The strengthening of cooperation, as well as the sharing of information, experience, best practices and training, as appropriate, among relevant officials such as customs, border, police, judicial, arms control and arms licensing officials at the national, regional and global levels, is essential for combating the illicit trade in small arms and light weapons in all its aspects. We note the value of assessing the effectiveness of cooperation and assistance in order to ensure and improve the implementation of the Programme of Action and the International Tracing Instrument.

^a See resolution 60/68.

^b See resolution 63/23.

14. We remain gravely concerned about the negative impact of the illicit trade in small arms and light weapons on women, men, children, youth, the elderly and persons with disabilities and call for improved understanding of the different concerns and needs of these groups. We underscore the need to further integrate the role of women into efforts to combat and eradicate the illicit trade in small arms and light weapons in all its aspects.

15. We welcome the important contribution of civil society, including non-governmental organizations, to the Programme of Action process, including in raising awareness and assisting States, upon request, with national implementation, and we encourage further cooperation to this end. We note the important role of industry in the Programme of Action process, including in ensuring that the process is fully informed by relevant technical developments.

16. We endeavour to take full advantage of the benefits of cooperation with the United Nations regional centres for peace and disarmament, the World Customs Organization, the International Criminal Police Organization (INTERPOL) and the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime, in accordance with their mandates and consistent with national priorities.

17. We resolve to address the close links between the illicit trade in small arms and light weapons and armed violence, conflict, terrorism, crime, including transnational organized crime, and trafficking in humans, drugs and certain natural resources, and resolve to strengthen national, regional and international efforts aimed at combating this trade.

18. We renew our pledge to rid the world of the scourge brought upon it by the illicit manufacture, transfer and circulation of small arms and light weapons and their excessive accumulation and uncontrolled spread in many parts of the world. We commit to mobilizing the necessary political will and resources to implement the Programme of Action and the International Tracing Instrument. Taking into account national and regional circumstances, we aim to achieve clear and tangible results over the next six years that will improve the security, safety and livelihoods of our people by undertaking the measures in the accompanying implementation plans.

C. Preventing, combating and eradicating the illicit trade in small arms and light weapons in all its aspects at the global level

4. In implementing the Programme of Action at the global level, States, where they have not yet done so, undertake:

Implementation plan 2012-2018

1. At the Second United Nations Conference to Review Progress Made in the Implementation of the Programme of Action to Prevent, Combat and Eradicate the Illicit Trade in Small Arms and Light Weapons in All Its Aspects, convened at United Nations Headquarters in New York from 27 August to 7 September 2012, States, bearing in mind the different situations and capacities of States and regions, welcomed progress made in the implementation of the International Tracing Instrument; noted the continuing challenges to the implementation of the Instrument, including the need for enhanced international cooperation and assistance; and resolved to undertake the following measures towards achieving the full and effective implementation of the International Tracing Instrument over the period 2012-2018.

A. Marking, record-keeping and cooperation in tracing

2. Recalling that, in the United Nations Programme of Action to Prevent, Combat and Eradicate the Illicit Trade in Small Arms and Light Weapons in All Its Aspects, marking, record-keeping and tracing are highlighted as key measures to fight the illicit trade in small arms and light weapons, taking into account the interlinked and mutually reinforcing nature of marking, record-keeping and tracing, and reaffirming that the choice of methods for marking and record-keeping and the choice of tracing systems are national prerogatives, States undertake:

(a) To strengthen national measures on the marking of small arms and light weapons, including, to the extent possible, marking upon import, and, where possible, measures against the removal or alteration of markings and for the recovery of erased or altered markings; and, where appropriate and feasible, to also mark components of the weapon in addition to those that are deemed essential or structural, in accordance with paragraph 10 of the International Tracing Instrument, in order to assist in tracing;

(b) To enhance procedures for the accurate identification of small arms and light weapons and the establishment of accurate and comprehensive record-keeping, including, to the extent possible, the applicable training of relevant personnel, including when appropriate those working in law enforcement on matters relating to the implementation of the International Tracing Instrument;

(c) To strengthen, when necessary and in accordance with their constitutional processes, inter-agency coordination at the national level in order to facilitate timely responses to tracing requests by, inter alia, enhancing the access of points of contact to relevant information;

(d) To enhance the exchange of tracing results, as well as other relevant information, between appropriate authorities at the national, regional and international levels in conformity with paragraphs 14 and 15 of the International Tracing Instrument in order to prevent the diversion of small arms and light weapons;
